Making the Spiritual Personal, and the Personal Spiritual

Marshall Ganz, a professor at the Kennedy School of Government, was one of the chief organizers for the “Camp Obama” approach to training young campaign workers for the 2008 election. Ganz took the lessons of community organizing and massive social change and applied them to a national presidential campaign.

In Ganz’ playbook, he writes of three stories that drive change: “The Story of Self,” the “Story of Us,” and the “Story of Now.” He instructs his students to understand their own personal narrative and learn how a personal narrative intersects with a communal narrative. Finally, the “Story of Now,” is the narrative of why there is urgency in solving a problem.

Jewish holidays, rituals and practices that are still in existence in broad numbers across the Jewish people are the rituals that can connect with the stories of “self,” “us,” and “now.”

As we approach the holidays of Yom HaShoah (Holocaust Memorial Day), and Yom HaAtzmaut (Israeli Independence Day), I would like to suggest that we begin using these three lenses of self, us and now for finding relevance.

I used to think that what was missing for these modern holidays was ritual. Hanukkah has a menorah, Passover has a Seder – binding rituals that are absent in remembering the tragedy of the Shoah and the hope of the creation of the State of Israel.

My thinking has shifted, though. It is not enough to have ritual. We need stories. It is not enough to have the disembodiment of history. We need to see how our own stories connect.

This year – my challenge to us is to uncover the stories this Spring. These stories might be from us, they might be from our family and they may be from our friends’ stories.

To quote Elie Wiesel who passed away between last Yom HaShoah and this year’s: “God created man because He loves stories”.

The Healing Power of the Kaddish

I practiced law for twenty-eight years. One of the reasons I became a lawyer was to help my clients with whatever problems they brought to my door. When I left my practice in February 2006, I needed to find another way to help people that fit within the limitations of the movement disorder that had caused me to retire.

I decided to join the Monday morning minyan to help assure that those saying Kaddish could do so. I was grateful for the warm welcome from the regulars and quickly came to appreciate the sense of community within that small gathering. Both of my parents were in their final years, and I knew that before too long, I would need the minyan as much or more as the minyan would need me.

I wasn’t wrong. When my father died in January 2008 and my mother in November 2009, I experienced the other side of the minyan, taking comfort in the supportive, consoling words of my friends. That didn’t surprise me.

What did surprise me was how saying Kaddish for eleven months helped soothe the hole in my heart.

Taking the time to pray and remember my parents strengthened my memories of them and my relationship to God. I often looked at the bimah while reciting the Kaddish, imagining that my parents were sitting there, watching and grateful for my prayers. I still do that when saying Kaddish on their Yahrtzeit; once again making my memories of them a blessing.

Community and Friendship Among PRS Families

The essence of community within CBS member families is both unique and welcoming. For almost a decade our children have enjoyed the environment of learning, prayer and socialization at PRS each Sunday. The sense of collaboration and enjoyment is easily visible from “drop-off” to “pick-up” times along with the family service, conducted by Hazzan Ben-Yehuda. The greetings each week are always comforting and something I’ve never taken for granted. Next time you are there, just look around at the smiles and positivity of the parents and children during these short time periods.

For the past two school years with the leadership of Jennifer Donahue-

Runyan (a PRS parent) and her family, our synagogue has taken it to the next level! Each Sunday morning at 9:00 am, families pour into Goldsmith Hall to enjoy a delicious breakfast prior to the commencement of the family service. While it would be easy to say that basic availability of food each week is enough to bring us together (the breakfasts are really yummy!), the connection we make during this very special time has further enhanced congregant relationships – adults and children alike. Any given week you can observe new friendships being made and participation in good-natured discussions by everyone. Aside from the amazing religious education my daughters receive from the staff and clergy, this simple yet effective concept of a Sunday breakfast has provided improvement to an already thriving community.

From Jennifer Donahue-Runyan’s perspective, she has achieved her goal. “When Hazzan brought up the idea (of a breakfast), I was thrilled about this because I knew this would help my family increase our relationships with our community. It’s exciting to see everybody show up every Sunday with smiles.” A special thanks to Jennifer and her family for their involvement.

I encourage you to visit the PRS Sunday morning breakfast (when school is in session) to create new connections of your own within the CBS community.

Introducing the New Chair of the Jewish Legacy Society: Marc Hammer

Home. That’s how I think of Beth Shalom. This feeling of comfort dates back to my childhood and makes me think of Hebrew school... my Bar Mitzvah... my wedding...

and, more recently, my own child’s Bar Mitzvah, religious school experience, reading Torah and USY participation. I know I’m not alone.

For so many of us, CBS is not simply a membership organization to which we belong. It is our place of worship. It is our community. It is where we turn when we celebrate and when we grieve. It is where we look to find meaning.

It is for these reasons and more that I am honored to take on the committee chair role for Beth Shalom’s newly named Jewish Legacy Society. Originally known as the “Endowment and Planned Giving Committee,” the purpose of the Jewish Legacy Society is to build an endowment that will help secure the future of the congregation and ensure a bright future for Beth Shalom – one that continues to provide education, scholarships, emotional and spiritual support and, of course, a final resting place for our families.

I take on this role optimistic and hopeful that we will build on our strong past and strengthen our future. In so doing, I would be remiss not to acknowledge the hard work and dedication of Harold Kaseff and Gary Cortés who have done an amazing job leading the committee and building our fund for the past many years.

Strengthening our congregational family and ensuring our religious traditions for future generations are paramount to the work of the Jewish Legacy Society. Let’s engage in this work together. I welcome a conversation with you and your loved ones about supporting the Jewish Legacy Society. Please contact me at 913-234-0311.

Linda Salvay to be Torah Fund Entertainer

Come to Sisterhood's annual Torah Fund Luncheon on Friday, April 14, to celebrate the success of our annual Torah Fund campaign and enjoy a delicious Passover luncheon catered by Kim's Kreations. Hors d'oeuvres and wine begin at 11:00 am in the Grand Hall. The afternoon's entertainment will be provided by Linda Salvay, well-known local singer and composer. Jewish creative expression has taken many forms throughout Linda's life: in writing and graphic design, in textile art and particularly in music.

She has been exploring Jewish music since her teens in USY and at connection. She went on to compose a number of songs, including an original melody to the classic "Ani Ma-amin" (I Believe); her rendition was included in the eighth annual Chasidic Song Festival in Israel.

Linda is a former music teacher at our Polsky Religious School, and she also has been involved in Jewish musical performance and worship as a member of Shir Ami in St. Louis, in Kansas City's Chai Singers and Yachad - The Traveling Tefillah Band. She is currently a fellow in the Midwest Jewish Artists Laboratory of the Jewish Community Center of Greater Kansas City.

Warm Up America!

Pictured are five of the 11 fire fighters of the 167th and Antioch fire station modeling their warm and snugly afghans which were donated by members of our WUA Project. We decided to show our appreciation to each member who works out of this station with a personal gift from our Sisterhood.

Begin Passover at the Sisterhood Gift Shop

If you have not inherited your Bubbie's seder plate, matzah plate or cover, Kiddush cup or Elijah's cup, the Sisterhood Gift Shop can provide these items so that you will have the best looking seder table in the city. We carry a variety of seder items that will fit into any home decor. We also carry fun projects to entertain children on the off chance that the seder gets too long for them. Need a hostess gift? We have that too. Come shop with us and start your own Passover traditions.

Sisterhood Installation to Take Place Soon

Sisterhood installation will take place on May 16 when Carol Yarmo will become our new president. Lunch will be catered by Linda Silver and entertainment will be an original skit written by Joanie Kort. Invitations will be mailed soon. Everyone is invited to celebrate with our new officers and board of directors.

Passover is Around the Corner

Passover is around the corner. Below are some ideas to make Passover more interactive for you and your children:

- Before Passover have your children help you come up with fun symbols for each of the plagues. For example: Ping Pong Balls or cotton balls for hail, get all kinds of frogs you can throw at your table. US Toy Carnival prize area has all kinds of animals for wild beasts as well as frogs, red food coloring and a clear bowl of water for blood and so many other ideas! Enjoy brain storming in advance with your kids and then put them in charge of the plagues during the Seder!

- Make sure you sing all the fun Passover songs like Lots and Lots of Matzah by Ellen Allard and Where is Baby Moses... author unknown.
- Have your child help make name places for your guests.
- Buy different children's Haggadot as well as some fun interactive adult ones and pass them out for the seder. Let people share meaningful readings and ideas from the different Haggadot. Uncle Eli's Special for Kids, A Most Fun Ever, Under the Table Passover Haggadah by Eliezer Lorne Segal is a great one.

- Invite family members in advance to send you their best memories of their childhood seders and read their memories at different times throughout the seder. It is great for children to hear about their aunts', uncles' and grandparents' memories and experiences.

- At the end of the seder go around the room and ask people to make a wish for next year...when the Haggadah says next year in Jerusalem what else do we hope for next year.

Have a happy, fulfilling and meaningful Pesach!

Spring Cleaning for a Cause

What is the point of spring cleaning? Whether it is to get ready for Passover, or whether it's to refresh our homes after spending so much inside-time during the winter, there is something truly liberating about going through drawers, closets, pantries and shelves and getting rid of what we haven't used and no longer need.

This year I encourage you to take two additional steps in your preparations for Passover and spring cleaning. First, I strongly encourage you to consider making donations of food to the JFS Food Pantry, located within the JCC. The JFS Food Pantry provides much needed food and personal supplies to over 290 families a month. They collect both kosher and non-kosher food, personal care items and even food for cats and dogs. Please consider giving some of the unopened food you would otherwise pack away for the end of Passover to the JFS Food pantry. If you would like to donate Kosher for Passover food, Beth Shalom is collecting Matzah Ball Soup mix and grape juice in the large white barrels at shul.

Second, if during your spring cleaning, you find clothing, home furnishings or other items that are still in good shape, but are not so useful to you and your family, please consider donating them to Jewish Vocational Services. JVS helps refugees who have made Kansas City their home. They accept donations of beds, dressers, tables and chairs, couches and clothing. To have your donation picked up, call 816-471-2808, or you can drop off donations at their warehouse location, 2516 Pennway, KC, MO, 64108.

What better way to celebrate your freedom than to help redeem those who are in need? My daughters and I will be making donations both to JFS Food Pantry and JVS this year. I hope you will join us!

PRS Commemorates Yom HaShoah

On Wednesday afternoon, April 26, PRS will commemorate Yom HaShoah (Holocaust Remembrance Day) with a special program and service in the Appleman Synagogue at Village Shalom. All students in grades 3-7 should be dropped off to meet their teachers in the Village Shalom lobby at 4:15 pm. The congregation is invited to join us at 5:30 pm for the program followed by our congregational Minchah service at 6:00 pm. PRS dismissal will take place at 6:15 pm. Please call Jill Goldstein at 913-647-7286 if you have any questions.

Healthy Tuna Stuffed Avocado

Ingredients:

- 1 avocado, halved and pitted
- 1 (4.5 oz) can tuna, drained
- ¼ cup diced red bell pepper
- 1 tablespoon minced jalapeno
- ¼ cup cilantro leaves, roughly chopped
- 1 tablespoon lime juice
- salt and pepper (to taste)

Instructions:

Scoop out some of the avocado from the pitted area to widen the "bowl" area. Place the scooped avocado into a medium-size mixing bowl.

Mash it with a fork.

Add the tuna, bell pepper, jalapeno, and cilantro to the mixing bowl. Pour in lime juice. Stir it all together until everything is well mixed.

Scoop the tuna into the avocado bowls. Season with salt and pepper.
